HOW TO RECOMMEND A BOOK?
Books Recommendations

The library welcomes suggestions for the purchase of books and other materials.

Readers can recommend books in the following two ways:

✓ Fill in the book recommendation form at the reception desk of the library.
✓ Email to library public mailbox tsgsuzhou@ruc.edu.cn

The book suggestion should include the following information: title, author, publisher, year of publication, ISBN.

The library will take the recommendations into careful consideration and purchase the books according to the library collections.

Three entries to English e-resources

Foreign Languages Discovery System

This system integrates and reveals more than 90% of library’s academic resources in foreign languages, which can realize the one-stop search of foreign language resources, including both paper resources and electronic resources. Readers can obtain different types of documents, such as news, reports, monographs, academic journals, academic papers, videos, etc. They can choose the language of documents as well.

Databases

The RUC library collects more than 400 types of databases. In the section of databases, readers can enter any foreign language database for retrieval.

E-journals

In this section, readers can realize one-stop access to most of the library’s electronic journals in foreign languages. Readers can search the keywords of a journal title to access to the journal, and then view all its volumes and issues.

Integrated Databases

EBSCO Serial Databases

EBSCO is one of the world's largest specialist companies providing journal and document ordering, and publishing services. More than half of the journals included are source journals of SCI and SSCI, and are full-text journal databases with relatively complete disciplines in the world. The library has purchased all 11 of the company's databases, of which Academic Search Premier (ASP) and Business Source Premier (BSP) are the two most important sub-databases.

ProQuest Serial Databases

It is an online version of ProQuest Information & Learning, which covers business management, social and human sciences, journalism, science and technology, medicine, finance and taxation. The Academic Research Library (ARL) and the ABI/INFORM® family of databases (ABI) are the two most important sub-databases.

Databases from Publishing Houses

Frequently-used Databases

Elsevier ScienceDirect
The library purchased a few subject sub-databases with the full text from 2004 to the present. The subjects include chemistry, computer science, economics and finance, environmental science, social sciences and humanities.

Wiley Online Library
Its subject areas include social sciences and humanities, science, technology and medicine, 100% are peer-reviewed journals, and 66% are included in SCI/SSCI/A&HCI.

Sage Journals
100% of SAGE journals are peer-reviewed, and our library purchased both the current issue database and back issue database.

Springer Journals
The database covers 11 disciplines including natural sciences, engineering, law, and economics. The library has purchased journals for science and engineering, and humanities and social sciences.
Kluwer Online Journals
It provides inquiry services for Kluwer electronic journals, covering more than 20 subject topics such as business administration, chemistry, environmental science, and humanities and social sciences.

Cambridge University Press Journals
It provides more than 300 academic electronic journals published by Cambridge University Press. 70% are included in SCI, SSCI, A&HCI, and most of the online editions of journals date back to 1997.

Oxford University Press Journals
It includes 238 electronic journals published by Oxford University Press, covering six subject field: Medicine, Life Sciences, Mathematics and Physics, Law, Social Sciences, and Humanities.
Back Issue Databases

JSTOR (Journal Storage)
A full-text database of expired academic journals, including from the first issue to the back issues of three to five years ago.

PAO (Periodicals Archive Online)
It provides access to the full text of the retrospective content of famous humanities and social science journals, from 1802 to 2000 worldwide. There are 435 types of full-text journals in total.
Dissertations & Theses Databases

PQDT (ProQuest Digital Dissertations & Theses)
It contains the abstract and index of more than 2 million doctoral and master's thesis of more than 700 universities in Europe and America since 1997, as well as the first 24 pages of the original text.

Proquest Dissertation Full-text Database (Proquest学位论文全文数据库)
The database contains the full text of some of the papers in the PQDT database. It is founded by a few Chinese universities, academic research institutions, and public libraries. They jointly purchase foreign excellent dissertations. The dissertations purchased by one member can be shared by other members.
Dissertations & Theses Databases

OCLC (Online Computer Library Center) FirstSearch Databases

OCLC FirstSearch contains more than 80 sub-databases, covering almost all subjects and fields. Every year CALIS (China Academic Library & Information System) purchases 12 basic sub-databases and offers them to 105 Chinese universities (including RUC). Among the databases, OCLC FirstSearch--WorldCat Dissertations provides abundant master’s and doctor’s dissertations.

IV How to access to the Belt and Road Initiative Databases
The library has two databases related to the Belt and Road Initiative. One of them is a journals database, and the other is a books database.

Enter “belt” in the find field to search databases related to the Belt and Road Initiative.
EBSCO-The Belt and Road Initiative Reference Source is a unique full-text database that supports the study of the Belt and Road Initiative like no other database available. With scholarly journals from dozens of countries, it covers essential information for studying the people, culture and economies of the region.

Content Includes

- More than 5,000 full-text journals
- More than 120 full-text newspapers and newswires
- More than 500 reports and conference proceedings
- Full-text coverage dating back to 1975
Select other sub databases of EBSCO

Its interface and searching modes are the same as those of the other EBSCO’s sub databases, providing both basic search and advanced search.
The Belt and road Initiative Collection is currently the first to collect basic reading materials of the studies on the countries along “One Belt One Road”. This database, which aims to collect the most comprehensive electronic resources on regional politics, economy, culture, development strategies and political studies related to the countries along “One Belt One Road”, has now collected more than 5,800 electronic books.
Advanced Search

Three options to display your search results via Cover, Brief, or Detail. Search result can be sorted by Year, Title or Publisher from Ascending to Descending or Descending to Ascending.
